YOU CAN TOUCH IT BUT NOT THROW IT AWAY

REZICLONK is an installation by the Turukutupa Company, which recovers trash to create a series of sound structures so that the public itself can experiment with the different materials' possibilities. Based on all kinds of items of dubious use, we have constructed a theme park of inert items that come to life in a second chance.

RECYCLED INTERACTIVE SOUND INSTALLATION

Installation: a series of installed objects, scraps and frames. Urban furniture. Street intervention. Everyday plastic objects. Acoustic sculpture.

Sonorous / Sound: waves caused by a body's vibratory movement. Dense, distant, green or raw sounds. Discover the possibilities of sound and learn while listening.

Interactive: the public interacts with the structures. Sounds are made when the structures are moved, touched, rubbed or struck. Experiment with movement, resonance and distance. Play at discovering the possible.

Recycled: any kind of disposable object is reused. Trash and waste from landfills, storage rooms and junkyards. Nothing is thrown away here: Diogenes lives.
